WRITING LIKE A WRITER

For teachers 3–6

Presented by Libby Gleeson,*

Award-winning Children's Author and Author of 'Writing like a writer: Teaching narrative writing', published by PETA

What do my students face when presented with a writing task? Acclaimed children's author Libby Gleeson gives teachers the rare opportunity to experience what they often ask of their students—to write creatively. Participants can expect to gain an understanding of the writing process—what it feels like to take risks and embrace uncertainty—enabling them to better support students in their own learning and development.

Discover some methods used by professional writers to sharpen their creative skills and accomplish set writing tasks. Reflect on the experience with Libby and fellow participants, leaving with a better awareness of the writing process and confidence in placing similar demands on students.
